Russia and the Eastern Question—The Rumored Secret Treaty.

(From the New York Herald, Nov. 2.)

The rumor of a secret treaty between Russia and Prussia, destined if true, to be known as the Wiesbaden treaty, has lent a new and somewhat lively interest to the European situation. The burden of the rumored treaty is to the effect that Russia was consulted before the war was commenced, and that while Russia bound herself to hold off for a reasonable length of time during the continuance of the war, she was bound, in the event of Prussian defeat, to step forth and forbid Prussian, or rather German, dismemberment. Prussia, on the other hand, in the event of victory, bound herself to stand by Russia in any attempt she might make to force the annulment of the obnoxious clauses of the treaty of Paris. The French paper in London, La Situation, inspired by the imperialists, admits the existence of the treaty. That such a treaty has been signed by Russia and Prussia may or may not be true. It is undeniable, however, that the arrangement fits in most admirably with the events and necessities of the hour.

We are not disposed to regard it as a mere rumor. The action of the Russian government, hitherto inexplicable, now begins to be intelligible. Since the Crimean war Russia has been peaceful. Russia, in fact, so far as the government was concerned, practically ceased to be a European Power. Internal improvements, the emancipation of the serfs, the construction of railroads, the strengthening of her position in the East, occupied the attention and, to all outward seeming, satisfied the ambition of Russian statesmen. To watchful and knowing observers it was apparent that Russia was making good use of her quietude and leisure; and such persons felt satisfied that Russia was preparing for eventualities after such a fashion that, when the eventualities came, she would be ready to make war in the East or in the West, as was most convenient. In other words, it was the conviction of many persons well qualified to judge that Russia was waiting her opportunity. If the Russian government now thinks that the desired opportunity has arrived few will say she has miscalculated.

From a Russian standpoint let us look at the situation. Since the days of Peter the Great Russian ambition has been directed towards Constantinople. It has been—it still is—her belief that she has been commissioned by Providence to restore the Greek empire, and to make an end of the work which the temporizing policy of the Western Powers has left unfinished, by driving the turbaned Turk out of Europe. In the pursuance of this policy the late Emperor Nicholas moved a little too fast. He badly chose his time. A new man with a great name had acquired the control of the Treasury and the armies of France. The Crimean war was singularly convenient for Napoleon. It cost France much, but it made Napoleon the Third secure on the French throne. Great Britain, which had destroyed the first French empire, through Napoleonic cunning strangely lent a helping hand to build up the second. The treaty of Paris, 1856, saved Turkey and humbled Russia, by driving her war ships out of the Black Sea. Russia felt then what she remembers now, that she was beaten down by a foolish, if not iniquitous, alliance of the two greatest military Powers of the West. Great Britain alone, France alone, could not have taken Sebastopol; but Great Britain and France combined were too many for Russia single-handed. Russia bowed to fate, the fate of the hour; but she bowed most unwillingly. "Not yet, but another time," was the sentiment of the Russian government and the Russian people when Sebastopol was dismantled and when the treaty of Paris was signed. Since 1856 Russia has been waiting and watching. So long as Napoleon seemed a power the time was not yet. Even Napoleonic overtures to undo the treaty of Paris could not drive Russia from her waiting and watchful attitude. After her Crimean experience she was not willing to trust the Turk even when bringing gifts. But the time has come at last. No Napoleonic cunning, no French and English alliance, can hinder her marching across the Pruth or hurrying her war ships to the Golden Horn. It may be that Czar Alexander's known love of peace and universally recognized honesty of purpose will prevent Russia from availing herself of her opportunity; but no one can deny that Russia's opportunity has come. It is said, indeed, that Russian agents have been to Tours, sounding the French government as to the feasibility of a sale of the national fleet to the Czar, but that they had no success in this direction to the present moment. We are told that the Russians offered France certain "political inducements," as well as a money payment for the vessels. There may be something in this statement. If the Czar be really intent on "going to the East," it is good policy to have as powerful a navy as possible. It would also be a very astute diplomacy to disarm France at sea by a purchase of her ironclads.

If Russia were to order her armies across the Pruth to-morrow what Power in Europe could hinder their triumphant march to Constantinople? We know of none. Great Britain would protest, might fight, but Great Britain alone could not arrest the conqueror's march. Russia in the Black Sea, Russia in Constantinople, means Russia in the Mediterranean, but Russia in the Mediterranean would destroy the policy of centuries. Great Britain, as we have said, alone could not arrest the march of Russia southward; but Great Britain, trembling for her naval supremacy, might seek strength from the other European Powers. Where could she find allies? If this Wiesbaden treaty be not a mere rumor it is evident that she could not count on Prussia. France is out of the question. Spain is powerless. Italy, growing into possible greatness, has already too much on hand. Allies for Great Britain in such a contest there would be none, for although Denmark and Sweden and Holland might be induced to do something, their co-operation would not be more than a straw in the balance. Russia could easily buy up Austria by giving her the Danubian principalities. It is impossible that, after all, Great Britain, yielding to the necessity of the situation, may consent to the enthronement of the Czar in Constantinople on condition that she is allowed to take possession of the land of the Pharaohs. This treaty does indeed give a very peculiar complexion to the European situation. Russia may not march to Constantinople, but she can if she chooses. It is our firm belief that if she does show any signs of carrying out her established and well known purpose Great Britain will immediately take possession of Egypt.

How completely in three short months war has destroyed the balance of power! How the schemes of statesmen have been baffled! In how many respects will it be found that the present war has defeated its purpose! If Russia does attempt to carry out her traditional policy we may have a conflagration which will develop into a destructive war which will leave Europe a comparative desert and which will put the destruction of the Roman Empire completely in the shade. The fall of the Papacy, the deportation of the Sultan, the re-establishment of the German Empire and the restoration of the Christian Empire of the East may make the year 1870 as memorable for its great events in the East as for those which are convulsing Western Europe.

The "Foreign Missions" of the United States cost $1,400,000. So much of the money as goes to the support of most of the Ministers resident at foreign capitals is absolutely thrown away.

The population of Nebraska, according to the late census, is 116,888.

Bourbon Hopes.

ANOTHER LETTER TO THE FRENCH FROM COUNT DE CHAMBORD.

Count de Chambord has just addressed the following manifesto to France:

Frenchmen: Once more your destinies are in your own hands.

For the fourth time within less than half a century your political institutions have collapsed, and we are given over to the most sad trials.

Ought not France at length to see the end of these barren agitations, the sources of so many misfortunes? It is for you to answer.

During long years of unmerited exile, I have not allowed my name to be for a single day a cause of division and trouble, but at the present moment, when that name may perhaps be a pledge of unanimity and security, I do not hesitate to tell my country that I am ready to devote my whole self to the protection of her happiness.

Yes. France will again lift up her head, if enlightened by the teaching of experience, and weary of so many fruitless endeavors, she will consent to enter again on the path which Providence has marked out for her.

Chief of that house of Bourbon, which by the help of God and of your fathers, once built up France into a powerful unity, I ought to feel more profoundly than any one else the extent of our disasters, and to me more than to any other belongs the task of repairing them.

May the sorrow of my country be the signal for awakening to noble efforts. The stranger will be driven from the soil, and the integrity of our territory assured, if we will only concentrate to the attainment of one end all our efforts, all our devotion, all our sacrifices.

Do not forget that it is by going back to its traditions of faith and honor that the great nation, weakened for one moment, will recover its power and its glory.

As I lately told you, government does not consist in flattering the passions of the people, but in confiding in their virtues. Do not allow yourself to be led away by fatal illusions. Republican institutions which might correspond to the new aspirations will never take root in our old monarchical soil.

Penetrated with a sense of the needs of my time, all my ambition is to found with your help, a truly national government, with right for its basis, honesty for the principle of its administration, and moral greatness for its basis, honesty for the principle of its administration, and moral greatness for its end. Let us wipe away all memories of past disputes, fatal to the development of true progress and true liberty.

Frenchmen, let this one cry rise from your hearts: "All for France, by France, and with France." HENRI.

The French Frontier (Swiss), Oct. 9, 1870.

SPIRIT OF THE GERMAN TROOPS.—Herr Wickede writes to the Cologne Gazette: "A high Prussian General recently told me that he had begged the King of Prussia at Commercy to grant him a squadron of cavalry for service in the chief town of his Government. The King laughingly replied, 'My dear General, you must apply there,' pointing to Moltke, 'he alone disposes of all our troops, and I ought to be glad if he only leaves me my body guard.' His answer, I think, is equally honorable for both—for our King, in that he recognizes Moltke's strategic genius so joyfully, and willingly defers to him; for the latter, in that he publicly receives such a recognition of his worth out of the mouth of his King and master. The genuine military spirit of all the Prussian troops is astonishing. A few days ago I was with Prussian officers of all kinds, two belonging to the Line and nine to the Landwehr. The various provinces of Prussia were represented. Two were scions of the strict Catholic and exclusive Westphalian nobility, others merchants and young lawyers from Berlin, factors from Pomerania, a manufacturer from Schleswig, an architect from Cologne, etc. All these men are so different in their social habits, their political and religious views, their friendships and inclinations, that in time of peace they certainly would not come much in contact, and would regard each other with indifference and occasionally with animosity. But all these differences disappear as soon as they have donned the officer's uniform, and are under arms as the King of Prussia's officers. Their only thought then is of doing honor to their position, and they are impressed by the most thorough esprit de corps. Their common wish is to fight for the honor of the Prussian flag—to conquer, and, if it is God's will, cheerfully to die; and this animates them all in equal measure. Among the Landwehr, the very men who at home over their beer and in popular assemblies loudly applaud the communistic and Democratic orators, are now, when they wear the uniform, obedient soldiers, showing the greatest respect to the youngest officers, and bewaring of the slightest insubordination."

A GEOLOGICAL CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.—It is not unknown by any one who has paid the least attention to the locality of diseases, that consumption thrives most upon damp soils. But Dr. Moffatt, a distinguished English physician, has apparently discovered that there is a connection between various kinds of soil and special diseases. He thinks that he has found that the course of consumption and anemia follow, in a remarkable manner, the course of the carboniferous system, and prevail to a far less extent in the new red sandstone districts. A singular explanation of this theory, or rather a fact to be taken in connection with Dr. Moffatt's researches, is the result of an analysis of wheat grown upon the two kinds of soil. That which was raised in the carboniferous region contained very little of either oxide of iron or phosphoric acid, while that which was the product of the sandstone region contained a large portion of both those chemical compounds. The foreign journals which report this discovery are inclined to the opinion that the data are yet too few to form the basis of such broad generalization, but if further investigation should prove the truth of this ingenious theory, it would be as important to inquire where our flour shall come as where we shall live, in order to escape consumption.—Boston Advertiser.

A LARGE HERD OF CAMELS IN NEVADA.—On a ranch on the Carson river, eight miles below the mouth of Six mile canyon, and about seventeen miles east of the city, is to be seen a herd of twenty-six camels, all but two of which were born and raised in this State. But two of the old herd of nine or ten brought here some ten months ago are now living. It would seem that the original lot fell into the hands of Mexicans, who treated them very badly, overloading and abusing them. The men who now have them are Frenchmen, it seems, who had formerly some experience with camels in Europe. They find no difficulty in rearing them, and can now show twenty-four fine healthy animals, all of Washoe growth.

The camel may now be said to be thoroughly acclimated in this State. The owners of the herd find it no more difficult to breed and rear them than would be experienced with the same number of goats or donkeys. The ranch upon which they are kept is sandy and sterile in the extreme, yet the animals feast and keep fat on such prickly shrubs and bitter weeds as no other animals would touch. When left to themselves their great delight, after filling themselves with the coarse herbage of the desert, is to lie and roll in the hot sand. They are used for packing salt to the mills on the river from the marshes lying in the desert, some sixty miles to the eastward. They have animals that easily pack 1,100 pounds.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO NOVEMBER 16

French Military Movements.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The World's correspondent at Tours, under date of yesterday, sent the following: Gen. Palladines has ordered a corps of 40,000 men to advance from Nemours along the line of railroad to Conflers and then move southeast to Toury, effecting a junction there with the left wing of the main body.

The Government is in possession of information that Prince Frederick Charles' army is advancing to reinforce the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg Schwerin, who is commanding at Toury. The Prince cannot possibly reach there before the 24th as the 9th one half of his forces had reached Troyes, one hundred and twenty miles from Tourney. On the 13th the rear of his army had reached that place. His scouts arrived at Nemours on the 13th, but were captured by a detachment of Gardes Mobile. Measures are taken by the French to impede the advance of the Prince from Nemours to Toury. The Duke Mecklenburg Schwerin's force consists of Von Der Tann's corps of 20,000 men, the Fourth, Seventeenth and Twenty-second infantry divisions, in all 34,000 men and 4,000 cavalry. Depalkine's army contains a large proportion of troops of the line. His force is daily growing stronger and reinforcements are coming forward rapidly.

Arming and equipping of new lines will be perfected in a short time. Great quantities of arms are constantly arriving by importation, while the manufacture of muskets, cannon, carriages and equipments proceeds with remarkable activity.

Dispatches to-day report the advance guard of the German's first army has arrived at Soissons.

German Position said to be Critical.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Private letters from Versailles say that the position of the Germans has become extremely critical and alarm prevails among all who understand the situation. The King would return immediately to Berlin, but it is not considered safe to permit him to depart without a very large escort, which could not be spared, as he would be captured or shot by Francs Tireurs who are swarming all over the country.

So great are Von Moltke's apprehensions of the consequences of attacks by the forces of Trochu and a simultaneous assault by the army of the Loire, that entrenchments are now being thrown up in the rear and flanks of the German positions around Paris. Officers of high rank at Versailles declare that the Germans find themselves besieged and other letters state that a transformation has occurred in the French people, changing depression and fear into confidence and bravery.

An immense supply of Snyder arms and Armstrong guns are in their hands, and the numbers of their armies are constantly increasing. In short, everything promises a complete turning of tables and the utter annihilation of the invaders.

Activity among the French.

TOURS, Nov. 16.—No official intelligence from the army of the Loire or Paris is given to-day. Advices from all parts of the country show that there is great activity in preparing material of war. Government's decree ordering the Departments to furnish cannon, is obeyed with alacrity in all unoccupied districts. At Bordeaux and Nantes mitrailleuses only are made.

A batch of Prussian official dispatches were found at Orleans yesterday, from which Government obtained valuable information of the enemy's intention.

England Takes Measures for War.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(Herald cable). At the Cabinet Council to-day, it was resolved to act in regard to the Russian complication. War is imminent. Great popular indignation exists toward Russia.

Austria Ready to Move.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(World cable): The Cologne Gazette of the 15th says: Baron Von Beust, after an interview with the Russian Ambassador at Vienna, stated to Lord Bloomfield that Russia had 100,000 troops near the Turkish frontier, and Austria was prepared to take the field if England would give her consent.

General Military Movements.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A special of the World telegraphs from Brussels on the 16th, that the first army, under General Manteuffel, moved in two columns, one proceeding along the Belgian frontier, and is now at Rocroy; and the other, having reached Soissons, turned north, striking the Laon railway at Chauncy and advanced to La Fer, fifty miles southeast of Rocroy. The strength of both columns is 50,000 men.

A report is current here that Von Moltke is seriously ill.

Chateau Arenberg, in the Canton of Thuringen, is being prepared for the residence of Napoleon. A large quantity of baggage has arrived at the Chateau, and the Empress is expected.

TOURS, Nov. 16.—Mezieres is surrounded again by Germans, and an artillery fire is kept up between town and the besiegers. The morale of the French troops has improved since the late successes.

War Feeling in England.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The World's cable dispatch says: The whole London press to-morrow morning will open a cry against Russia, appealing to the Government to declare war if she persists in her demands. The feeling in the city is intense, and the excitement is almost unprecedented. The Government finds itself pressed forward to an attitude it had not expected at present to assume. This feeling is so strong that the Government is convinced that it is unsafe to resist it.

Extraordinary activity prevails at the Admiralty. Orders have been given to arm, man and prepare fleets. Work is to go on day and night at Portsmouth, Davenport, Spithead and Sheerness.

Preparations of Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A cable dispatch to the World says the reserves of the Russian army for some time past have been secretly called in. The command is not given in the usual manner, but secretly to chiefs of districts. Army contracts for breadstuffs are twice as large for 1871 as last year. The manufacture of arms in all the foundries is proceeding with uninterrupted dispatch, and the fleet as being constantly exercised in the use of new cannon at Cronstadt.

Russell has informed Granville that Bismarck says that Prussia has not and will not be a party to any abrogation of the treaty of 1856 by Russia; that Gortchakoff's circular took Bismarck by surprise, and that no secret understanding exists between Prussia and Russia. Bismarck's protestations are received with incredulity by the best informed circles here.

The Feeling in France.

TOURS, Nov. 16.—The French journals treat England's anxiety on the subject of Russia's renunciation of the Paris treaty as a just return for her indifference to the sufferings of her former ally. The Government here seems to give no attention to the incident.

Great Excitement in England.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—There is intense excitement in Court circles, and a general conviction that English statesmanship is at fault. All its traditional aims are imperilled and the country wholly unprepared for war.

Conference at Vienna.

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—Von Beust was in conference on Tuesday evening with the British and Turkish Ministers upon the question raised by Russia.

Condition of Paris—More about the Eastern Question.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Paris Temps says that an offensive movement can alone save the city.

All the Powers are willing to consider the Paris treaty. Granville's reply to Gortschakoff's circular denounces Russia's right to recognize the circumstances as releasing her from the obligations of a solemn treaty. It also denies that, accepting it as true that if some Power considers itself released from the treaty, another is at liberty to disregard it. He says that instead of such renouncement it should have invited the Powers to consider the subject.

The Times says that if the Russians invade the Euxine, Turkey will be able to sweep it off; if not, England and other Powers are bound to do it.

The treaty admitting Hesse Darmstadt into the North German Confederation is already signed.

Negotiations with Bavaria are in a satisfactory shape.

Election returns thus far show that parties will stand in the new Diet as follows: Conservatives, 150; Old Liberals, 20; National, 110; Progressive, 40; Catholic, 40; various, 30.

Other London Dispatches

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Continental papers take no pains to disguise their satisfaction that England, with her colonies, would suffer more severely than France has, from a war.

A sortie from Belfort was repulsed yesterday. The French lost 200 killed and wounded, and 60 prisoners.

All papers here speak of Russia's demand as insolent. England will stand firm to treaty engagements and will (not?) stand alone.

Throughout England preparations for defense are extensive. Gibraltar is being re-provisioned, and the government is purchasing powder in large quantities. In the event of a declaration of war, Egypt, Servia and Roumania, will unite against Turkey for independence.

The report that reached this city this morning, of the capture of the German steamers Hansa and Leipzig, was erroneous. The steamers are at Bremen. The bark Hermann Holmann, was blown up by a French frigate, off the coast of England, yesterday. The story of the capture of the steamers probably originated from this circumstance.

Spain has a King at Last.

MADRID, Nov. 17.—The Cortes has elected the Duke of Aosta King of Spain by a vote of 191 against 120. Madrid is animated but no disorders are reported. The opposition voted as follows: For a Republic, 64; for Montpensier, 22; for Espartero, 8; for Alfonso, 2; for Montpensier's daughter, 1; declined to vote, 18. Several deputies who voted against the Duke of Aosta yesterday, changed their votes to the affirmative. The Duke has been proclaimed King by the President of the Cortes. Salvos of artillery followed the proclamation. Twelve blank votes were given in the election yesterday by the Carlists.

LATE ELECTION NEWS.

ARKANSAS.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—The Democrat has a dispatch from Little Rock, Arkansas, charging Gov. Clayton with selling out the Republican party in the late elections, by throwing his influence for the Democratic ticket—particularly for Congressman in the First district—but the correspondence says it is believed the Republicans have carried the State by a handsome majority.

VIRGINIA.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Rives (Rep.) has been elected in the Fifth Congressional district, in Virginia.

TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 10.—The latest returns of the election say Butler (Rep.) is elected to Congress in the First District, and Maynard (Rep.) in the Second.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The latest returns indicate that Gov. Hoffman goes out of the city with a majority of about 52,037, on a vote of 109,335, with a registration of 142,666. Two years ago his majority was 68,350. Mayor Hall's majority over Ledwith falls over 28,000 short of Governor Hoffman—amounting to only 23,811. The Democratic majority in the State cannot be given with accuracy, but it is certainly not less than 30,000, and may turn out considerably more. According to the best information yet obtained, the Assembly stands 66 Republicans to 62 Democrats.

The World claims 51,970 for Hoffman in this city, and 33,467 in the State.

The Republicans carry the Legislature by a good working majority.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The State elects the entire Republican ticket by about 15,000 majority. The vote was very light. Farnsworth, Ingersoll and Merrimen (Reps.) are probably defeated. Hawley is elected in the Fourth district, by 150 maj. Mann (Rep.) in the Thirteenth district, is probably elected over Grebe (Dem.)—which is a Republican gain.

Russia Advancing in the East

English journals point to the fact that Russia is slowly but steadily encroaching upon India. Bayonets have led the way but trade and intercourse are making such rapid strides in Central Asia that the military achievements promise to become permanent conquests. Indeed Russia has already annexed a vast extent of territory in Central Asia north of the Anglo Indian possessions and bids fair in a few years to obtain dominion from the Caspian to the Yellow Sea. These achievements, though simply the logical sequence of a long chain of events very naturally create uneasiness in the minds of the mercantile and industrial classes of England who have so large a stake in India. This is the principal reason for the alarm of England at the attitude which Russia is now assuming. It has been the fashion to represent Russia as a semi barbarous nation but her civilization will not compare favorably with the foremost European States. It must be borne in mind that of late years she has made vast efforts in the direction of self improvement, and that these efforts have been productive of substantial and beneficial results. A portion of the English press even, are constrained to admit that the destruction of the native Tartar dynasties through Russian encroachments, cannot, from a humanitarian stand point, be deplored. England's apprehensions spring rather from the menaces of her commercial power in the East by Russia, which is making rapid strides in Cotton manufacturing industry—drawing the raw staple from India, and supplying India in turn with goods. These are considerations which are at the bottom of England's determination to resist the further aggrandizement which Russia threatens by abrogating the treaty of Paris and asserting her sway in the Black Sea, thereby putting Turkey in peril and making it certain that the absorption of Constantinople by Russia would ultimately be accomplished.

Grant and Cox.

It is [illegible] that the origin of the difficulty which led to the resignation of Secretary Cox was the controversy over the notorious McGarrahan case. The correspondence between the President and the Secretary concerning that matter places it in a different light from that in which it has hitherto been presented. The whole correspondence is too long for us to publish, but we take from a contemporary journal a fair summary of it. It is shown by this correspondence that the President refused to sign any patent in the McGarrahan claim for either party, "as so much fraud is charged and believed to exist on both sides," until Congress had, in some manner, settled the question at issue, while Secretary Cox believed that McGarrahan's claim was entirely fraudulent, and opposed any further delay in settling the matter adversely to him. The alleged interference of the President with Cox's Indian policy consisted in the President's indorsing a letter from Senator Chandler, of Michigan, recommending in earnest terms the appointment as Indian Agent, in Michigan, of Mr Brockway a Methodist clergyman in that State, who had successfully labored as a missionary among the Indians. The President's indorsement on this letter was, "recommended by Senator Chandler—might be appointed as it would not change the policy which had been adopted in regard to the appointments for that branch of the service." The President added at the same time, that he was anxious to meet the wishes of Senator Howard, who concurred in Senator Chandler's request. The indorsement about the appointment was merely of a [illegible] character. So much for the hue and cry that has been raised about Secretary Cox['s] retiring from the Cabinet because the President opposed his schemes of reform.

Value of Immigration

Some German statisticians before the present war commenced, undertook a series of calculations with a view of discovering the capital value of immigration to the United States. The results of their investigations were interesting enough to make it worth while to relate them. They show that in 1856 it was discovered that the average cash capital of each of the 142,342 immigrants of that year amounted to $68 08. But it having become evident that such computations were very inadequate and unreliable on account of concealment of large amounts, through ignorance of the intent of the inquiries, this method of examination has been abandoned. It was, however, estimated that from 1854-'57 German immigrants alone brought into the country annually an average of about $11,000 000. The several German governments keep a careful statistical account of the amount of money carried away by each emigrant, and from these official tables this amount is verified.

But the chief value of immigration is in the addition it makes to the productive forces of the country receiving it. This is of far more value than the money and property the immigrants bring with them. Their labor creates wealth. It is estimated that the wealth of the United States has been increased during thirty years not less than five thousand million dollars by immigration. Before the present war broke out in Europe, interrupting the stream of immigration it was computed by these German economists that the benefit to the United States resulting from immigration was nearly four hundred million dollars annually. When we reflect that this country has hardly begun to fill up yet and that there is abundant room for this influx of population for a century longer, we may begin to obtain some little conception of the future greatness of the United States in wealth and population.

The Snake River Mines.—The Boise Statesman has this item:

> Mr Lesser came down several days ago from the Snake river mines and reports the prospect from there as most encouraging. The miners are discovering better pay than ever in a bed of gravel underlying the basaltic formation and with powder and drill are opening out beds of gravel of unknown extent, and rich enough for good pay high up the banks from the river bed. This kind of prospecting is but just begun, so there is no use to conjecture what may come of it, but it certainly promises well. Large quantities of dust are daily arriving from there.

It is universally remarked that the enforcement of the Congressional election law in New York City produced highly favorable results in the reduction of the repeating vote. There is no doubt that it kept out 20,000 votes of this class. This is good for a beginning. A more rigorous enforcement of the law will produce still better results.

Late yesterday afternoon the report came that gold, which had risen considerably in consequence of the threatening state of affairs in Europe had fallen again. This may be an indication that a general war is deemed to be imminent as it seemed a day or two ago.

Censure of a Prussian General

They who have read Carlyle's Frederick or almost any one of the many novels devoted to the illustration of his life and times, must have a lively recollection of the great King's manner of showing his displeasure with his generals. One is reminded of this manner, says the Pittsburg Commercial, on reading the traditional report of it, by a German correspondent, touching the disgrace of General Steinmetz. It seems that the old general was not sufficiently careful of the lives of his men. [illegible] he sent his men to capture the fortified batteries of the enemy without first using his artillery against them and in this manner sacrificed whole regiments. Of course this proceeding was as inconsistent with the rules of the military art as with a decent respect for humanity. A pleasing trait of the Crown Prince is mentioned in connection with this needless slaughter. When the Prince heard of the heavy loss of men he wept and remained all day seated at a table his head resting on his hand while he admitted nobody to his presence. The old King next received General Steinmetz most ungraciously, saying to him: "I thought you would be a father to your soldiers but I find you are a murderer of the children confided to you. I wish you to leave my presence and never again show yourself to me." The veteran General at once retired to his place in Posen, appearing much cast down on the way.

OREGON

The Statesman of Thursday has these items:

The child of Mr Russell of this city, which has been suffering for several days past with the unknown disease died this morning at 6½ o'clock.

We learn from Mr Purvine of Polk county that William Kroeshof Spring Valley died this morning at 11 o'clock, after an illness of four days, with what they call smallpox. The whole family of six persons were stricken down at almost the same time, he being the last to catch it, but the first to die.

The Idaho Indian Superintendency has been discontinued. The Nez Perces Reservation has been attached to the Oregon Superintendency, and the Fort Hall Reservation to Montana. Superintendent Col Lloyd Jones has been authorized to transfer to Superintendent Meacham all the records, files and papers of his office.

Route of the Northern Pacific Railroad

From the Idaho Statesman

It is no longer a question or matter of doubt that the North Pacific railroad must abandon their imaginary route through the north part of Montana Idaho and Washington, and adopt one running further north through British Columbia or the other more natural and feasible one through the valley of Snake river. It becomes in fact, a matter of astonishment, as the subject is investigated how any company of sensible men should ever contemplate building a road over the route proposed in the charter. No question seems ever to have been asked as to whether there were natural obstacles to overcome but the route seems to have been presumed feasible because a road was proposed. Added to that, Philip Ritz rode over it on a mule and said it was a good route and no further question was asked. The grand object was, not a railroad, but a land grant, where the feasibility of route was a matter of comparatively little importance. But there is another point which occurs to us in this connection. The North Pacific railroad was projected at a time when it was presumed that in addition to the land grant a subsidy in money could also be obtained from the United States large enough to pay the cost of construction and leave a large profit over to the company, and for that reason also they cared little where the road was to start from or lead to. They had the example of the Union and Central Pacific before them, and in their eagerness to obtain the subsidies of lands and money, the practical business of building a railroad was lost sight of. But, as those immense jobs, the Union and Central, came to be exposed, it grew difficult for the Northern to repeat the programme throughout—and though they have land enough to satisfy them no doubt, as they got all they asked, they did not get the money and hence they have been almost as long in getting ready to commence as the Union and Central were in building. But the force of circumstances has compelled the company to make the first practical move in the field during the last year, and the result is before the world. The first fact developed is that the country through which they propose to build their road, and to which they are confined by their charter, is as nearly an impossible route as to be absolutely impracticable. What next? There must be a change of route. That the company will ask Congress for next winter or they will make some feint to delay any action whatever for another year. The true interest of the company, we have no doubt, is in immediate action. If their charter is a mistake, stop not to discuss side issues, but go squarely up to Congress and say so, and boldly ask for the necessary relief in permission to change the route to one that is practicable. The sooner this is done the better for the country and the better for the company. The Snake river valley is the natural course of a railway which will some day do an enormous business. It is one of the most productive valleys on the continent, while lying all along its borders on either side, and sometimes in the very river bed itself, are the most enduring mines. Who first occupies the field will reap the greatest advantages.

Fight for a Wife between Father and Son.—A very curious case of abandonment came up yesterday afternoon at the Yorkville Police Court before Judge Coulter, in which a young and pretty woman, giving her name as Adele Van Hofe charged a young man named Louis Van Hofe with desertion. It appears that nine years ago Christian Van Hofe, a married man, and the father of Louis and eight other children who then resided in Germany became infatuated with Adele seduced her and fled with her to this country abandoning his rightful wife and family. He continued to live with her, and the fruit of their illicit intercourse, a pretty little girl eight years of age was in the court yesterday. Two years ago Louis, the son a young man about twenty three years of age, immigrated to this country, and finding out where his father lived took up his residence with him preparatory to starting in the cabinet business. Here he saw Adele, and fell madly in love with her. She resisted his advance at first and remained faithful to his father until he purchased a pistol and threatened to blow out her brains, when she consented to marry him. They were married accordingly and lived [illegible] until a few weeks ago when as Louis alleges, he found that instead of a wife he had been keeping a mistress for his father and he then left her to shift for herself. Adele denies that she has ever been untrue to Louis since she married him and adds that her elopement with Christian broke her father's heart when he heard of it, thereby causing his death.

When the officer went to arrest Louis he found in his possession a new loaded revolver with which he intended to kill his wife. Justice Coulter held him for trial.

The Revolution in Uruguay is not yet ended. By the latest reports it was progressing, and the rebel leaders were more defiant than ever on account of the successes which they had met with. It is most unhappy that the people of those little States in South America cannot live quietly and contentedly and avoid those disastrous conflicts which so often occur. Everyone retards the progress of republican institutions in South America. If Uruguay is not very careful she may meet with the same fate as Paraguay, be taken under the protection of Brazil and what that means it is hardly necessary to explain.

The Danish West India Islands stand a very fair chance of being brought into closer communion with each other than at any time in their past history. The rejection of the cession of St Thomas and St John by the United States has in a measure produced that result. The people of those islands have become alive to the necessity of reforms and the good to be effected by retrenchments—a wise resolve on their part, and one which will produce good results. Submarine telegraph cables will be laid and steam communication between the islands will be established.

PACIFIC COAST DISPATCHES,

Mr Seward in Japan

San Francisco Nov 17.—The news from China, by the steamship China, shows that the danger to foreigners of which so much has been said was grossly exaggerated and to a great extent imaginary.

The trip was made successfully by Hon W H Seward. His health is better than when he left here. A letter to the Herald from Kanagawa says: The visit of Hon W H Seward and party was the great excitement of the early part of the month. In going to Yeddo in the United States steamer [illegible] in company with the American Minister they were caught in a heavy typhoon. At Yokohama Mr Seward was the guest of Mr. DeLong, the American Minister, and at Yeddo the guest of Mr Sheppard United States Consul. The first audience ever given by the Mikado to a private person was given to Mr Seward on the 12th. The only persons present were Mr Seward the Minister Mr DeLong and Col Sheppard acting Secretary of Legation. The Americans are delighted and English particularly chagrined at so great a Republican triumph. Great praise is due Mr DeLong for his management of the matter. Every official in Yokohama called upon Mr Seward—except the U S Consul Mr Lyon.

Marysville Nov 17.—A party of the officers of the California Pacific Railroad consisting of Col J P Jackson Gov M S Latham R S Mattison and O R Ford visited this city to day in one of the new cars recently placed on the line between Sacramento and Vallejo, returning during the afternoon. They came to view the improvements made on this branch of the road.

The mining claims of Yuba county are assessed at $283 655.

A man named Gardner had his leg broken early this morning in Yuba City, in a very singular manner. His leg in some manner became entangled in the halter rope, when the horse jumping back caused the accident, and amputation will probably be necessary.

Fire at Watsonville.

Watsonville, Nov 17.—A destructive fire occurred here this morning at 1 o'clock. Putnam's livery stable Lynch's blacksmith shop, Kelly & Kennedy's livery stable, White's saloon and Alexander's tailor shop were totally destroyed. Loss heavy but little insurance.

Grass Valley.

Grass Valley Nov 17.—Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock Philip Martin a miner in the North Star, was badly hurt by the explosion of a blast. A piece of rock struck him on the right breast and penetrated the lungs. The sight of one of his eyes was almost destroyed.

The Grass Valley Benevolent Association advertises a grand gift entertainment to be given on the 2d day of January next in this place. Prizes to be given ticket holders to the amount of $150,000. One hundred thousand tickets to be sold at $2 50 each and the number of prizes 1 578. The town water works, public schools and orphan asylum are to receive large gifts from the association.

Fire at San Jose.

San Jose, Nov 17.—At a quarter to 3 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in a room in the rear of the Wisconsin House, corner of Santa Clara and San Pedro streets. The fire burst through the room and soon the whole building was in flames. The butcher shop of Belts & Wentz, adjoining was next to go. There the fire might have been checked, if the supply of water had been good, but the utmost exertions failed to prevent the two story frame building, occupied in the half lower portion as a fruit store, and the remainder as a tin shop, and the whole of the upper floor as residence. After burning fiercely for some time the supply of water having apparently increased, the flames were got under.

San Diego

San Diego Nov 17.—Mining interests at Julian are improving. Three mills are now running steadily, and bullion receipts the past week amount to 500 ounces gold.

Yesterday one firm in this place loaded thirty wagons with freight for Tucson, Arizona.

The Chamber of Commerce have appointed an agent to represent the interests of Southern California at Washington this winter.

NEVADA.

A fire broke out last night in Lafferty's saloon. It was discovered and extinguished before much damage was done.

W F & Co ship 30 bars bullion to night, valued at $37 394 50.

Examination of the Railroad Robbers

Reno, Nov 17.—The examination of Chapman one of the parties implicated in the railroad robbery at Verdi on the 4th was had to day before Justice Bowker of Reno. J W Coffroth conducted the examination for the people, and Judge Haydon of Reno appeared on the part of the defendant. Several witnesses were examined among them R A Jones one of the parties arrested by officer Burke of Sacramento. Jones gave a complete history of the robbery from its conception up to the time of his arrest. He implicates Chapman. Chapman, in default of 20 000 bail was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff of Washoe county. This makes seven in all who have been sent up, and all but a small portion of the money recovered.

UTAH

Corinne Nov 17.—A telegram from Salt Lake City reports the capture by some party of officers of four of the C P R R mail robbers near that city. They brought in another prisoner named Fay last night. He has confessed being a party to the robbery.

It is said that Nevada and Utah which heretofore sent their mineral productions to California are now sending their ores to the east, the richest mine in the latter territory having forwarded 500 tons over the Union Pacific during a single fortnight. The blame is thrown by California on the Central Pacific for its high freight rates but that corporation shifts the odium very successfully upon the Californians themselves whose smelting works are insufficient to [illegible] the trade and hence compel it to go elsewhere. Recent efforts to establish new works at Oakland have failed. From Ogden west the rate is $15 per ton, freight from the same point east to New York $24 in currency, and to Swansea in Wales $40 in currency. The last named point gets a large proportion of the smelting and Chicago is said is trying the experiment. [illegible] is erecting works at [illegible] mountain. Montana [illegible] complains of hard times and [illegible]

The imports of dry goods to this port says the New York Bulletin for the month of October do not justify the anticipations of those who predicted that the war would induce a contraction of our importations. On the contrary we find that the prostration of some of the large European markets has caused an enlarged shipment of manufactures to the United States. The total receipts of foreign dry goods for the month amounts to $9 3[illegible] 000 against only $6 07[illegible] 000 for the corresponding month of last year showing an increase of over 50 per cent. The increase has been about evenly distributed over the various classes of goods. It is indicative of a healthy condition of this branch of trade that nearly the whole of these additional receipts have gone directly into consumption, the entries for warehousing being about the same as last year, while the withdrawals from the warehouses have been $360 000 less than then.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES

The city government of Philadelphia has disbanded two independent fire companies for rioting. The movement will soon extend to all the rest and a paid fire department will be substituted.

The census returns of 106 counties, and estimates in the other seven make the population of Kentucky 1 3[illegible] 596—an increase since 1860 of [illegible] the largest actual increase the State ever made since it was settled.

At Cleveland on the 10th inst a large meeting of committees was held to make arrangements for the reunion of the Army of the Cumberland to take place in that city November 24th and 25th. Full details were completed. A large gathering of soldiers is expected. In the afternoon of the 24th General Garfield will deliver a eulogy on General Thomas. In the forenoon of the 25th General Palmer will deliver the annual oration. The banquet will take place on Friday evening the 25th.

A Washington dispatch of the 10th inst has this: An effort will be made by sending dispatches from here to night to create the impression that the letters of the President stopping the proceedings of General Cox in the McGarrahan case were owing to the fact that the President's brother in law Judge Dent was one of McGarrahan's counsel, and that General Dent went to Long Branch and persuaded the President to write the letters. This statement is totally untrue. Instead of Judge Dent being McGarrahan's counsel it is generally understood here that what he has done in the case has been in conjunction with Senator Nye and others in the interest of the New Idria Mining Company. General Dent was not in the North during August so he could have had nothing to do with the letters. This attempt to put General Dent in a false position by one of Cox's friends is discountenanced by the majority of them.

VARIETIES

Barbecue is derived from the French phrase de la barbe à queue which means from snout to tail and is equivalent to the expression "the whole hog."

George Francis Train keeps in his service a private secretary and it is now suggested that a Train-dispatcher might be added to his official household.

Acorns of the cork oak, sent from the Patent Office have produced a number of trees in California, one in the Sonoma valley now having a trunk measuring three feet in diameter.

Susan B Anthony says "Marriage is a fearful thing." The men must all have been of that way of thinking while in Susan's neighborhood or she would not have been permitted to remain so long a miss.

The Military Resources of Germany.—The belief that the military resources of Germany are well nigh exhausted and that she would be unable to send heavy reinforcements to her troops now on the soil of France is erroneous as the following statement will show. There are at the present time at the seat of war fourteen North German army corps, seven North German Landwehr divisions, two Bavarian army corps, two Wurtemberg divisions, and one Baden division. Now the actual number of troops which the North German army was able to put into the field, was, on the 1st of July, 1869. First—Troops of the line, 368 battalions of infantry, 304 squadrons of cavalry 1,272 pieces of artillery, thirteen and one fourth battalions of pioneers total 463 000. Second—Reserves 120 battalions of infantry 76 squadrons of cavalry 240 pieces of artillery, 12 battalions of pioneers, 143 000 men. Third Landwehr 197 000 men. So that the strength of the whole army on a war footing was 803 000 men. Besides, Bavaria can furnish 50,000 additional troops, Wurtemberg 30,000 and Baden 20,000. Hence it may be seen that the German Governments would have but little difficulty in pouring 200 000 more men into France.

[illegible] the Herald [illegible] comfortable [illegible] The other day we were [illegible] (figuratively) to the seventh or eighth heaven of delight by the information [illegible] passed by the Oregon [illegible] of commerce [illegible] vetoed by the Governor. To [illegible] Legislature and [illegible] thereby thrown into violent and [illegible] would be a very protracted paroxysm. We came within an inch of [illegible] expression [illegible] into our brother's arms to congratulate him upon having at last [illegible] grain of common sense and we should have done it had we been certain that he had such a thing about him as a strawberry mark. From that day to yesterday (a sad day) we had in common with other capitalists of Portland, basked in the sunshine of assured prosperity high rents, two per cents and big bellied incomes. Yesterday however being as watchful as usual upon the movements of the enemy we discovered his minions actually at work upon the frame-work of the rat hole. They had begun the nefarious scheme not in the center of Front nor yet in the centre of First street but away down beyond the fishmongery by the water side, where the wide-awake guardians of the public weal would never except by lucky chance spy them out. The guilt stricken wretches when questioned, made pretence that their master had bought, and paid for in coin no butter and eggs and oats they said in this trade about six hundred feet of ground along shore and considerable of the adjoining dirt, that they were then and there, under his orders — beginning to construct a steamship wharf (two stories,) a ferry slip and a railroad depot. Did ever any body hear of such a preposterous pretense! As though they expect us to believe that he ever intends to build a foot of railroad in Oregon, or a ferry boat, or that he has got any steamships! Don't we the readers of the Herald, know better? These minions can't throw saw dust in our eyes in that way. Our most deliberate and solemn conviction is that this monopolist's intention is to make a rat hole, according to the wise and timely prognostications of the Herald. Did he not throw dirt into the channel at Clinton's Point under pretense of constructing a railroad track and depot? Is he not now building a double ender ark at East Portland in which to bring over 400 000 000 heathen Chinee," with their Joshes and pagan chop sticks, to take possession of America and prevent the construction of the North Pacific double track railway (by the Portland capitalists, so called), thus also busting the buckle of the conquering Belt? Then how shall we believe that he is not now building a rat-hole under the wicked pretense of a ferry slip double decker wharf and railroad depot? We call upon the Herald Hercules for help. Let the capitalists' bowgag be sounded and let the old time honored rallying cry, "What, ho! there!" be yelled forth upon the Oregon mists. Shall we have a rat-hole in our very midst and not make one frantic, frenzied howl about it? Nary.

County Finances Again.—As the Herald has not seen fit to correct its figures in regard to county finances, we will state some further facts calculated not to verify that paper's statements of a few days since. When the present Treasurer came into office the former Treasurer paid over in coin $13 429 58. This was not the full amount shown by the Clerk's exhibit to be in the hands of the former Treasurer on the 5th day of July, but it is all that was paid over. Of the funds turned over, there were on hand funds other than [illegible] funds and not available for county [illegible] $[illegible] 539 [illegible]. The amount paid out since the present administration assumed the office, is $11 889 88 of which $3 845 81 was paid out on orders drawn by the old administration. Thus it will be seen that the total of warrants drawn and paid by the present officers, is $8 044.[illegible] The money in the hands of the old treasurer belonging to the State School fund, $859 93, coin and currency was not then and has not since we are informed, been paid over to the present treasurer though it should have been done over four months ago.

Temperance Lectures.—C. Beal, G. W. C. T. and Dr M D Merrick, State Lecturer, will lecture at the following times and places on Temperance:

Multnomah county Milwaukie, Sunday, Nov 20th at 6½. Brooklyn Monday, Nov, 21st at 6½. Mt. Tabor, Tuesday Nov 22d at 6½, Fountain Wednesday Nov 23d at 6½. Columbia, Thursday, Nov 24th at 6½. St John's, Friday, Nov 25th at 6½. Will meet delegations at East Portland Saturday, Nov 26th at 1 o'clock, P. M., to organize county lodges.

Washington county—Union School House, Sunday, Nov 27th at 2 o'clock, P. M., Forest Grove Wednesday Nov 30th at 6½. Scholl's Ferry Friday Dec 2d at 6½, Stringtown, Saturday Dec 3d at 6½, Tualatin, Sunday, Dec 4th at 1 o'clock P. M.

Removal.—Mr Higgins, contractor, was engaged yesterday afternoon in removing the city safe to the new Auditor's office in Corbett's building. The old office is directly over a saloon, and when the safe was moved in, it was taken into the saloon and hoisted through a hole in the ceiling and floor. The contractor wished to lower and remove it by the same route, but the proprietor of the saloon asking what the contractor thought an exorbitant price for the "right of way," the latter concluded to pass it out of the window and thence to the ground by means of hoisting tackle. This proceeding attracted a large crowd of spectators as it seemed really a hazardous method of handling a five ton safe. The job was however, effected without mishap.

The Students' Repository.—The first number of this little monthly journal was laid upon our table last evening. It is edited by Wm W Gibbs and Wm H Upton two young students of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary. It contains several articles on educational and kindred subjects evincing very creditable ability, a number of items of information on matters connected with the Academy, a list of the Faculty, Report of the standing of students etc., making altogether a sheet which does honor to the youthful conductors. Elsewhere may be found two or three items which we have taken the liberty to clip from its columns.

Portland Academy Cadets.—These, says the Students' Repository, constitute a well organized military company belonging to the school and including the gentlemen of sufficient age, their regular drills occur every Friday afternoon, following Rhetorical exercises under supervision of Prof McGilveny who is a retired drill officer. By these students besides acquiring the tactics of the soldier are impressed with the sense and value of order and noble manly carriage and movements—qualities which no young man can afford to do without.

Passengers [illegible] North.—The North Pacific Transportation Company's propeller California sailed for Victoria Port Townsend and Alaska ports at 4 o'clock last evening. She took the following named passengers: Mrs M A Phelps and child Miss M Y Phelps Wm Anderson, Miss Gleason [illegible] Fessler William [illegible] will connect at Port Townsend with the steamers for ports up the Sound.

A [illegible] This is the name of a [illegible] in our [illegible] says the Students' Repository regularly organized for the thorough cultivation of voice and vocal music. The following are its officers: Prof J B McGilveny [illegible] Teacher Wm W Gibbs President, Mary Combs Vice President Mattie E Grooms Treasurer [illegible] Cooper Secretary.

Not Dead.—Mr Nicklin who came down from Salem yesterday [illegible] Mrs Dean [illegible] reported dead [illegible] small-pox was living [illegible] The report had [illegible] Salem that she was dead and it was generally supposed [illegible]

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATER —The thrilling sensational and spectacular drama of "Adrienne, or The Heart of a Life," was produced at Oro Fino Theater last evening, Mrs Bates in the character of Adrienne The piece was exceedingly well mounted, and its performance remarkably effective. The audience testified their approval with frequent and hearty applause not only for one but for several of the dramatis personæ. The attendance was very good considering the attraction at Busco's benefit The same bill will be repeated to night

BOSCO —This very clever and popular magician had a good house at Philharmonic Hall and he performed as usual to a delighted audience His skill in producing illusions is such as to lend a new charm to the oldest and oftenest seen magic feats He does not however confine himself the old role, but gives his audience their full money's worth in entirely new tricks The perfect ease with which he does all his feats and the completeness of the illusion, render his performances of the most pleasurable character

LABORERS WANTED —Notwithstanding there are many idle men in the city who are growling about being crowded out by "Heathen Chinee" we observe that laborers are still advertised for by the Oregon and California Railroad Company As well as we recollect there has not been any time since the resumption of work on that road last spring, when the company has not had posters up all over the city advertising for great numbers of laborers wanted immediately They were white men who were wanted too ... Chinamen having been employed by the company for road work Dozens of times we have seen squads of men sitting by the street side whittling benches and cursing the Chinamen in positions from which without rising they could read on a neighboring wall, such placards as this ... men wanted immediately or ... 0 men wanted immediately Although all applicants have uniformly been hired and set to work and have been regularly and promptly paid their wages in coin there are now fresh placards up ... laborers wanted Let us advise those idle walk loungers and bench whittlers to cease their laborious occupation of swearing about heathen which pays them nothing and go and answer those advertisements of the railroad company It will mitigate the hard times with them ma... ...

A RUNAWAY AND A TOTAL WRECK —A team from the country got away from the driver a boy of about fifteen, somewhere up town and started on a spirited run After careering as is the fashion of processions through all the principal streets they halted by the force of circumstances over which they had no control on Front street just below Alder horses both down and heaped one on the other harness broken into straps and scraps, wagon into splinters and the whole presenting a most decidedly wrecked appearance The horses a powerful and spirited pair got away by the breaking of one of the reins and ran till they were both in a profuse sweat One of them was hurt a little, the other escaping without injury An hour afterward we saw the driver in a distant part of the city picking up the fragments and loading them into another wagon

A Mile a Minute.

EXTRAORDINARY RACING BY AN OLD LOCOMOTIVE.

The New York Sun gives an account of a rather startling performance by engine No 81, which took place between New York and Philadelphia. At two o'clock Wednesday morning, engine No 81 was ready at Mantua Junction for the express. This locomotive is said to be the oldest passenger engine on the road and though somewhat worn with age, excels many of its juniors in both power and speed. While waiting for the express the engineer and the fireman, having half an hour to spare, left their engine on the main track and went to breakfast. At this dark and early hour the only persons at the Junction were employees of the company. The veteran locomotive was standing alone. Its bright head light threw a gleam up the track, revealing distinctly far into the darkness beyond the continuous line of steel over which its ponderous wheels had so often rolled. From its ash pan dropped the heated cinders, and from the oily elbows of its steel joints came the fizzing sound of imprisoned steam. All was quiet, and the men whose duty it was to handle the reins of this iron monster supped on unsuspicious of such a contingency occurring as its breaking loose. The homely feast disposed of, they lit their pipes, but they had not enjoyed more than half a dozen whiffs when they were startled from their reverie. To their astonishment, their engine began moving, and before either of them could recover their self possession it had shot out of sight, and was making the most remarkable time on record. In a few more moments the express came up. Without a moment's delay its engine was sent in pursuit of the runaway locomotive. The news of the runaway spread consternation among the passengers, and so anxious were they on the subject that nearly all of them left their seats and crowded round the operator.

Kensington, Frankford, Bredenburg and Tacony stations were successively passed by the pursuing locomotive without discovering anything of No. 81. Just before reaching Holmesburg Junction a thin streak of light was descried in advance which appeared to them like a fiery serpent shooting over the track. The tail of the imaginary serpent was soon touched, and turned out to be a trail of red hot cinders dropped by the fugitive locomotive. Believing that they were now close to the latter, they slackened their speed until the telegraph poles no longer looked like a gigantic fine tooth comb. At Torresdale, a little beyond the junction, the truant engine was reached. Its fires were burned down, and it had come to a dead stop. A comparison of watches showed that the runaway engine had traveled 16 miles in about as many minutes. No damage was done, and owing to the unreasonable hour at which the event occurred none but the railroad officials were badly scared. The engineer and fireman of locomotive No. 81 are at a loss to understand how the engine's throttle was opened. They did not see any person approach the engine, yet they insist that the engine could not have started without some mischievous hand being first laid upon it.

The merchandise market has been in an active state during the week, considering the lateness of the season. We find numerous buyers in the market, especially in the dry goods, hardware and grocery lines. Orders from the upper Columbia have been large in the aggregate, on account of the prospect of the early closing of navigation. Wallamet dealers are also buying liberally, and our jobbers are mostly kept pretty well occupied in filling orders. Trade, in general, has been such through the fall months as to be, upon the whole, quite satisfactory to our jobbers.

We find in the grain market some excitement in consequence of the threatening attitude lately assumed by several of the great powers of Europe, not heretofore engaged in the war. While the effect upon the European market is to confuse and depress, the news operates on this coast toward a rise of grain and flour. Should the war continue [illegible] powers become embroiled, as now [illegible] probable, prices must go up materially. The [illegible] from San Francisco indicate that the [illegible] Here the [illegible] in favor of maintaining the present [illegible] in case England and Russia shall [illegible] figure. Flour is quoted at the figures [illegible] given. No change in other staple articles [illegible]. In provisions there are some changes. Mess pork [illegible] lower per bbl. Cheese is a little lower. We find the reputation of some of the leading brands of Oregon rising in the market. Cranston's, manufactured near Salem, has attained a high standing, being considered superior to any California make, and brings a higher price. Butter and eggs are materially higher.

The bark Tordenskold has now on board 10,710 sks wheat, weighing 1,367,970 lbs., or 22,799½ bushels, equal to 683 tons. She will sail on Monday for Queenstown or Falmouth, England, for orders. This is the third vessel loaded by Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay for England since harvest.

Since our last report the ship Garibaldi has sailed for China with a cargo of flour valued at $16 477. The aggregate of homeward bound Chinese passengers by these two vessels [illegible].

THE CROPS OF THE UNITED STATES

We take the following extract from the monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for October 1870:

[illegible] The wheat crop of 1870, in a majority of the [illegible] and [illegible] in those in which this cereal is prominent, is materially less in quantity than the crop of 1869, which was a very large one, notwithstanding the assertions of some croakers to the contrary. The reduction is due first, to the loss of plants by an unpropitious [illegible] for germination and early growth of the winter variety, followed by an open and somewhat variable winter; and, second, to the drought which prevailed with great severity in the Northern and Western States. This reduction, as averaged from [illegible] appears to be about 14 per cent. In the several States it is as follows: Maine 6; New Hampshire, 10; Vermont 10; New York, 30; New Jersey, 23; Pennsylvania, 17; Delaware 30; Maryland, 17; Virginia, 9; Michigan, 17; Texas 2 [illegible]; Illinois, 10; Indiana, 16; Ohio, 15; Michigan, 9; Wisconsin, 20; Minnesota, 15; Iowa, 13; Kansas, 4; Nebraska, 14; California, 16; Oregon, 3. The States indicating an increase are Massachusetts, 2; Connecticut, 11; North Carolina, 7; South Carolina, 10; Georgia, 10; Alabama, 12; Arkansas, 7; Tennessee, 9; West Virginia, 2; Kentucky, 2. In the early spring the "condition" of the wheat fields pointed to a decrease of 20 per cent. As is usually the case adverse reports have had a more chilling aspect as the season advanced, and a result somewhat more favorable to production is now recorded, yet the [illegible] reports have maintained a close correspondence throughout the season, verifying the general [illegible] of the reports.

The Colorado grasshopper has been very troublesome in the Territories. In parts of Utah farmers are preparing to sow fall wheat extensively, hoping to escape their ravages. In San Pete county, Utah, very little grain has been saved, much land was replanted, and the fields are still green, while frosts have already appeared. In Conejos county, Colorado, not more than half the crop was harvested at the date of the report, and the ground was already covered with six inches of snow.

The average quality of the crop is better than that of 1869. In portions of the Western States and in New York the grain was shriveled by dry weather. In Pennsylvania and Maryland the excessive moisture and high temperature of June were untimely, inducing disease and causing imperfect development. In Virginia the quality is variable, in some places superior, in others injured by heavy rain while in bloom, some fields suffering from the midge, while occasional injuries were sustained in the stack from wet weather. In the southern wheat belt including the table lands of North Carolina and Tennessee, the quantity was in excess of the crop of 1869, but the quality was injured extensively by rains between cutting and threshing, though many counties report superiority in quality. Smut proved troublesome among careless farmers. Throughout the Ohio and upper Mississippi States there is an unusually large proportion of No. 1 wheat. Occasional damage from rains while in the stack is reported from the Northwestern States. In Pierce county, Wisconsin, about one-third, all No. 1, was thrashed before the storms, and the remainder was greatly injured, some entirely spoiled. Other counties had a smaller experience. The season was comparatively unfavorable in Kansas on account of the drought in July and August, but less injury was suffered than was expected. The Pacific coast reports are variable. Some counties in California make the quality superior, while others report injuries from rust and inferiority from the immaturity of grain blighted by drought. The early sown fall and spring grain of Oregon is good, while that sown late was injured by the excessive heat of summer.

Among the winter varieties which have succeeded best the Tappahannock is prominently named. It is favorably mentioned throughout the South and West, and has done well among the mountains of Utah.

Complaints of low prices are still heard. Ohio correspondents assert that wheat cannot be profitably grown there at one dollar per bushel. In portions of the Northwest that price cannot be obtained; in Northern Wisconsin 87 to 92 cents per bushel are common quotations.

The fall sowing has been delayed by the dry weather and much of it is slow in germination. This is especially the case in Indiana and Ohio. The fly has begun its ravages in places, and in parts of Kansas the "army worm" has also put in an appearance.

There is yet some old wheat unsold, though the moderately liberal harvest sent most of the surplus to market. Low prices have retained a part of that beyond the Mississippi. Sac county, Iowa, claims to have one fourth of the old crop still on hand.

LAND DEPARTMENT

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, Oct [illegible] 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned.

First—[illegible] granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a preemption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands coterminous with the first division located from East Portland to Jefferson at 12 M. February [illegible] 1870. The second [illegible] located from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May 18 [illegible] and the last named point to the California State line [illegible]

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims [illegible] any tract [illegible] can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 [illegible] and upon very favorable terms if they so desire, by making an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary, he can sell the land or mortgage it, he is saved the payment of lawyers or agents' fees and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES.

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, Kearny street, corner of Commercial. [illegible] patients and all those requiring his services [illegible]

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are [illegible] a suffering out a miserable existence in the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid countenances and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who [illegible] to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians [illegible] [illegible] their places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Address DR J F GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE

HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION!

OF

EAST PORTLAND, OREGON,

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS to their Stock.

Application for ONE HUNDRED SHARES was made before the books were opened, and a large number of shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Oregonian and Bulletin will give a good idea of the plan and purposes of the Association, the location of the land, etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization we gave an account a few days since, is now ready for the purpose of shares. As it is with one exception, the Portland Homestead Association, the first organization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of these Homestead Associations are not at all speculative in the ordinary sense of the word. They are dependent for the profits of their investment upon the natural advance in the value of their lands, consequent upon the co operation of many individuals—shareholders—and the advance of [illegible] surrounding lands by reason of the growth of population and demand for room outside of, but still near, the city. The Riverside Homestead Association has a fraction over one hundred and twenty acres of land situated [illegible] Brooklyn on the east side of the river, the western boundary line being about [illegible] from the ferry landing at East Portland. [illegible] in one strip along the Wallamet river, half a mile in length, and another strip along the Oregon and California railroad, half a mile in length, the strips being connected near the [illegible] by two rows of blocks (with a street between them) the whole forming a figure not unlike the letter H. It is divided into 74 blocks, 200 feet square, with streets running at right angles, and [illegible] several lots, along the river front. The shares number 600, worth $60 per share. It will be seen that a share thus represents nearly a lot with an undivided interest in the 80 additional lots. The additional shares are to be sold off at the proper time for the benefit of the Association, the money coming in for the proceeds in proportion to the number of shares held. When all shares are taken and the Association shall determine to do it, the choice of lots will be put up at auction to the highest bidder, the proceeds of such sale, after [illegible] the original price of shares or lots, to be divided equally among the whole number of shares. Thus, if a person wants a particular lot or block, and is willing to pay $100 more [illegible] or less as the case may be, he can [illegible] the lot or block as his individual [illegible], the premium being divided among the whole body of shareholders. It will be seen that everything is co-operative, and [illegible] No man can make a dollar without also making a dollar for every other shareholder. There is no [illegible] the property, by some [illegible], far below the first actual cost, [illegible] liable to happen in the case of [illegible] tract of land must be judged [illegible] but considering the steady and [illegible] advance on real estate in this city and neighborhood, and at East Portland, [illegible] last year or two, it seems hardly [illegible] values to go back.

In the Riverside Association all [illegible] tions seem to have been taken to guard against monopolies of shares. No person [illegible] can buy more than the number of shares [illegible] three blocks, or twenty-four lots, and votes in determining the operations of the Association are restricted in the same manner. The [illegible] shares may pay down $60 per share, which will exempt them from all assessments, or they may pay $15 quarterly with an [illegible] share, payable with the first [illegible] liable in this latter case to another (and only one other) assessment of $5 per share. Upon the payment of the shares in full, with the [illegible] as above, the holder is entitled to his [illegible] and his proportion of all the proceeds [illegible] all sources. No officer of the Association [illegible] any pay for services except the [illegible] who gets $25 per month, so it will be seen that the expenses must be light.

That part of the tract lying along the river is a high plateau, nearly level, about 50 feet above the water. There is no part of the [illegible] row of blocks but commands a splendid view of Portland and the river for [illegible] up and down stream. That part of the tract lying along the railroad is, every foot of it, of the richest loam soil and adapted to gardening purposes. A beautiful little stream of pure water runs through almost the entire length of this strip of the tract, affording the means of irrigation, and power sufficient to supply pure water to every part of the whole tract. There is not a waste lot or [illegible] lot in the entire tract. Under all these advantages, it would seem impossible that there should be any chance of loss to shareholders. Within a year each shareholder, if he chooses, may get a perfect title to as many lots as his shares represent, or he may continue his interest undivided with the Association while the association may exist.—Oregonian.

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

We have been led to make these remarks from the fact that the subject of making homesteads on the outskirts of this city and East Portland is being daily discussed here among all classes, and we [illegible]

"Riverside" just south of East Portland, has already been [illegible] established. The site selected is a tract of land lying a little over a mile south of the ferry, [illegible] shaped like the letter H, one side of which is half a mile in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the homestead, which is [illegible] but a trifle above the other prong of the H, [illegible] forty or fifty feet above the river, can be had an extensive view of Portland, East Portland, the city [illegible] the W[illegible] for several miles. The land is very fertile and is partly covered with light fir timber. A tract [illegible] wide enough for two rows of blocks, with an avenue between them connects the west prong of the H, which has just only been described, with that on the east. This last tract of land is in a high state of cultivation valley, which is now under a high state of cultivation. Through its whole length runs a trout brook, the water [illegible] as crystal. With a hydraulic ram [illegible] Association [illegible] have water conveyed through [illegible] every portion of the homestead.—Daily Bulletin.
